GIVE THANKS!

November 4, 2022

On November 3 my husband Kyle and I visited my horse Sriracha. I praise the Lord for guiding and protecting me and giving me a second chance to live. I am also thankful for Kyle who pulled me safely away from Sriracha after he kicked me and I was knocked out.

I lost my memory and woke up in an ambulance as we were rushed to Tripler. A CT scan showed I have a hairline fracture in my temporal bone. I have a concussion, and I am also struggling with vision problems on the side I got kicked and have a black eye. It's very hard to move my jaw to eat and my bottom tooth is chipped.

The doctors were very shocked my injuries are not as serious as they could've been. If I had been kicked harder, I could have bled out. Instead, there was almost no bleeding from the fracture.

One day later my brain isn't 100% yet and it's very hard to think and make decisions, but I am so thankful and praise God I am still alive and my injuries are not as bad as they certainly could've been.
